

TAFT CALLS WILSON WEAK VACILLATOR

Attacks the President's Mexican Policy and the Eight Hour Law.

HE OPENS N. J. CAMPAIGN

Had He Continued in Office Ex-President Would Have Recognized Huerta.

RENTON, N. J., Oct. 4.—Opening the Republican State campaign here today, William Howard Taft attacked President Wilson for the enactment of the Adamson eight hour law, for his procedure in regard to Mexico and painted him as a weak vacillator, ready to barter his convictions for votes.

He assailed the Democratic party for its fiscal policy, its extravagance, its free trade tariff, its claim to credit for present prosperity and its foreign policy. He appeared to doubt that the eight hour law for the railroad workers was proper, but he said this was not the issue.

"Under the duress of threat the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States succumbed," Mr. Taft said. "It was one of the greatest national humiliations to which the people of this country have ever been subjected. It struck a blow at the principle of arbitration for the settlement of industrial disputes."

Issue of the Controversy.
The issue of this controversy is not whether the men were entitled to more pay than they received. The men render a good and highly skilled service. They may deserve an increase of pay or a reduction of hours. The eight hour day when practicable may be conceded to be a great advantage.

The glaring evil in the result is that by threatening public disaster a group of men have succeeded in compelling an object surrender by the President and Congress of the principle of arbitration for a compulsory demand for a compromise with their will without an investigation or a hearing of a most important issue.

When the President requested Congress to pass the Adamson bill he also requested them to adopt the Canadian law declaring such a strike unlawful if entered upon before a submission of the issue to arbitration. The theory of that law is that after arbitration, when the public has learned the merits, the strike proceeds, and public opinion may be counted upon to defeat a demand of the judgment. This doubtless would have prevented a recurrence of such a cowardly exhibition of submission by the Government.

Comment on Mexico.
Of Mexico Judge Taft said: "Mr. Wilson's action in Mexico should condemn him for the Presidency, for the purpose of evading responsibility under present conditions it is advanced in behalf of Mr. Wilson and the Democratic Administration that the conditions in Mexico were an inheritance from the last Administration. The last Administration did nothing to complicate Mr. Wilson's problems."

"Huerta had been only twelve days in power when Mr. Wilson came in. Up to that time nothing had been done except to maintain the status quo."

Charges Vacillation.
He made these points against the President in indicting him for vacillation: "Mr. Wilson as a publicist was against the initiative, referendum and recall in his 1912 campaign he announced a radical change of view upon them."

In 1912 Mr. Wilson sought for votes on the ground that the Democratic party had declared in favor of a law exempting our coastwise trade from Panama Canal tolls. At a crisis in the Mexican troubles he made a speech in Congress saying that for a reason he did not define he wished discrimination in favor of American trade repealed."

He flouted the necessity for military and naval preparedness and laughed at the popular strength of the movement for a public health law. When the popular strength of the movement for a public health law became clear he changed his attitude."

As a candidate Mr. Wilson upheld the principle of the merit system in the civil service, but as President he signed a bill taking out of the classified service all deputy collectors and deputy marshals and openly defended his course.

As a publicist Mr. Wilson criticized the idea that the Filipino people could be easily trained to self-government; in office he has continually urged legislation giving what he calls "liberty" to the Philippines.

Child Labor Law.
As a publicist he attacked the enactment of a Federal child labor law as an absurd extravagance. In office he has held up to scorn the idea of a tariff commission to investigate questions regarding the tariff as a protective measure. Since then he has urged the adoption of a provision for such a commission.

Having intervened by threat and force in the affairs of Mexico, he denounced intervention in his Indianapolis speech. Mr. Hughes is a man whose avowed opinions have always been the guide of his action," said Mr. Taft. "The chief characteristic of Mr. Hughes is the courage of his convictions in meeting the embarrassment of political opposition."

AGAINST INDIES PURCHASE.
Governor of Danish Islands on Way to Copenhagen.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Oct. 4.—"With the President inclining toward the United States and with no desire to offend, I do not believe the inhabitants of the Danish Islands would be made happier by American purchase," said L. C. Heide, Governor of the Danish West Indies, on his arrival here today from St. Thomas.

The Governor is on his way to New York and Copenhagen, where he probably will appear before a committee of the Danish Diet to give information with regard to the sale to the United States of the islands. The Governor added:

"The islands are almost wholly negroes, restless and anxious for any change. They are greatly disappointed in the event of American purchase."

LA FOLLETTE TRIES TO SIT ON THE FENCE

Senator in Campaign for Re-election Keeps Silent on Presidency.

LEANS TOWARD WILSON

He Is Speaking in Praise of Adamson Bill and Underwood Tariff.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 4.—Finding himself out of harmony with the Republican party, Senator La Follette in his present campaign for re-election has maintained silence as to his preference in the race for President.

By inference he has let it be understood that he is for Wilson, and at least one former Republican newspaper which has always espoused La Follette's cause, the Wisconsin State Journal of Madison, is openly advocating election of La Follette along with the Democratic ticket.

La Follette has been on the stump in Wisconsin two weeks now and not once has he had a kind word to say for Hughes. When the Republican candidate visited Wisconsin two weeks ago the Senator sent word that a "previous engagement" prevented his taking part in the reception. Republicans, however, are cheered by the fact that the rank and file of the Progressive element are supporting Mr. Hughes.

Straddling the Fence.

With the exception of his remarks on the seamen's bill La Follette is speaking almost exclusively in praise of the Adamson law and attempting to defend his vote for the Underwood tariff. In nearly every one of his speeches the Senator has had something complimentary to say for the Wilson Administration, although he has taken care not to make his remarks so strong that they will alienate all Republicans, his apparent purpose being to straddle both sides of the fence and draw votes from each party.

When Republicans are permitting La Follette to run his own race. They justify this action by citing that the Senator is going about the State attacking the stand of Mr. Hughes and preaching anti-Republican gospel. His apparent "big business" continues to emanate from La Follette and he has bitterly assailed the motives of those back of the preparation of the bill.

Early in the campaign La Follette had a good deal to say about an embargo on arms shipments, which he advocated. This no doubt drew to him a great many German-Americans and helped him to the nomination. In his race for the Senate he is being opposed by William E. Wolfe of La Crosse, and as Mr. Wolfe himself is of German extraction La Follette has not had much to say of late on the question of an embargo.

Barter Offer Rejected.

One of the sensations of the campaign was sprung this week when there was an attempt to hand over the Progressive vote to Wilson and Burt Williams, the Democratic candidate for Governor. The Kenosha county Democratic committee was told that for a small consideration the Wisconsin State Journal, which is advocating the election of Wilson and La Follette, would be circulated broadcast through the county until the coming of the election. The committee turned down the offer and issued a statement to the effect that there was no occasion for Democrats to support a renegade Republican who had had a good Senatorial candidate of their own.

CUPID SAVES A GIRL FROM GOING TO JAIL

Marriage Offer in Court Makes Judge Suspend Sentence on Miss Bornholz.

Dorothy Bornholz, an attractive looking girl of 21, was called to the bar before Judge Wadhams in General Sessions yesterday morning. She had pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing $5,000 from her employers, Klauer Brothers, lace manufacturers, of 587 Broadway, for whom she was bookkeeper. Sentence was about to be imposed.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced upon you?" asked the Judge, looking down at the trembling girl, whose eyes were shining.

"No, your Honor," was the low reply. "I have nothing to say. I am only a poor girl who has been deceived."

"I am, your Honor," came the quick reply from a corner of the courtroom and a tall man rose. He was invited to the witness chair and put under oath. He bent over and whispered to the Judge. He said that he was Harry Richard Mattison of 27 West 125th street, a clerk employed at 63 William street.

"Do you realize that this young woman stands here having committed a crime which has cost her $5,000 from her employers?" asked the Judge.

"I do, sir; but that makes no difference to me. I believe that she is honest at heart. I love her and I want to marry her."

With that he reached into his pocket and produced a marriage license which had been obtained on the previous day from City Clerk Scully. "I know she is a good woman," he added earnestly.

The Judge sat perplexed. He looked at the witness and he studied the girl, who stood clinging anxiously to the railing before him. He looked inquiringly at Assistant Attorney General Richard Mattison, who had just testified. He informed him that the girl had begun to take small amounts of money from her employer to buy presents for her friends.
